

The sun changes but the forest doesn't...

I looked out the window at the evening sky.

I saw foliage for miles.

Fields with horses.

I watched the sun go down.

I looked out the following morning and nothing had changed...

Foliage for miles.

Fields with horses.

The sun went up, the scorching heat began!

The forest would never change. Wait a minute...

Are they really cutting the trees down for more houses?

